PRESENTS PLAN TO COOLIDGE

Senator Johnson Offers Program for Farm Relief.

EMBODIES SEVERAL FEATURES

Minnesota Solon Would Have Government Set Prices For Farm Products and Aid in Regulation of Production and Marketing—Also Suggests Reduction in Freight Rates and Taxes.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota called at the white house and laid before President Coolidge a definite plan for the relief of the farmers of the country, particularly the wheat growers.

The Farmer-Labor senator's proposal embodies these features:

First—Use of the machinery of the federal government to stabilize the market and set prices for farm products for at least two or three years, or until the farmers can get on their feet by co-operative action.

Second—Vigorous prosecution by the federal department of agriculture, in conjunction with the agricultural departments of the states, of a campaign of education on the necessity of orderly production and orderly marketing. The object of this campaign should be to induce the farmers not to produce too much in any one year, and to feed out their products as the market is ready to take them up, without crowding or dumping.

Third—Reduce the price of things the farmers have to buy, so that they can keep on a level what they receive for their productive efforts and what they have to pay out for equipment and other necessities.

The third suggestion, Senator Johnson stated, could be carried out to some extent by lowering freight rates and reducing taxes. These cuts would go only a short way towards solving the problem, however, in his opinion. The chief trouble in this connection, he asserted, lies in the fact that exorbitant prices are being charged for most of the things the farmers have to buy. This plan, Senator Johnson said he told President Coolidge, offers the only remedy which he thinks will actually assist the producers out of their present grave condition.

"While I think diversified farming, more credit, co-operative marketing, and even a revival of the grain corporation, would help out to some extent," the Farmer-Labor senator said, "they would not bring about the full measure of relief the farmers must have. As far as more credit is concerned, the farmers have too much credit now. They can't pay off their mortgages, or even the interest on loans in many cases."

Senator Johnson outlined to the president the Producers' National alliance, which he said is now being organized in Minnesota. The object of that alliance, he said, is to enable the farmers to maintain a level of prices which will insure them at least the cost of production, with a fair return for their effort, and to hold their crops off the market until they can get such prices.

The senator did not stress the question of an extra session of congress. He said he put himself on record in favor of an extra session two months ago, but added that now it is too late for an extra session to do any particular thing, with the regular session only two months off.

ATTACKS SUPREME COURT

Gompers Draws Comparison Between America and Britain.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 4.—Following speeches by fraternal delegates from England and Canada at the American Federation of Labor convention, President Gompers took occasion to attack the United States supreme court for the annulling of the child labor law and other legislation favorable to labor, drawing a comparison between this country and Great Britain. In a veiled way, Mr. Gompers also criticized the use by the federal and state courts of the United States of the injunction. "When the British parliament meets and enacts a law it is a law of the land," said he. "There has been one judge who in his time undertook to annul an act of the British parliament. He lived but a short time after and after him no judge or court in England undertook to annul an act of parliament." Mr. Gompers also took a dig at the "red" movement.

SALOONISTS DEFIANT

Liquor Sold Openly in the 300 Cafes in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—Philadelphia's 1,300 saloonkeepers laugh openly at the joint action of the federal government and Governor Pinchot to close their places under the "padlock law," and continue to sell whisky and "high powered" beer openly. Reuben B. Sams, in charge of the prohibition office here, said he has reported to Washington that the conditions here were not approached elsewhere in the United States.

Francis J. Manley, chief counsel for the Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective association, said: "The dealers will ignore this order to go out of business. The procedure adopted is utterly meaningless, preposterous and without sanction of the law."

A. D. Chiquoine, executive secretary of the Law Enforcement league, said: "Out police have failed to close the saloons, although they know they are selling booze openly." Meanwhile the teams of notice servers, a department of justice man and a state trooper to each team, continued to serve notice on the saloonkeepers to close up or be closed up as nuisances.

Aged Physician Dead.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—Dr. D. Tod Gilliam, well known physician, died at his home here. He was in his 80th year.

Thompson Freed By Jury.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Fred Thompson, accused of the slaying of Richard Tesmer, was found not guilty. Thompson, who claimed to have the "soul of a woman in the body of a man" had been identified by Mrs. Tesmer as the girl bandit who killed her husband during a hold up. The jury deliberated two hours.

GERMAN CABINET DISSOLVED

Chancellor Stresemann Also Offers His Resignation.

MILITARY DICTATORSHIP LOOMS

Berlin, Oct. 4.—Chancellor Stresemann dissolved the German cabinet after a visit to President Ebert, at which he offered to resign.

It is probable that the dissolution of the government will be followed by the appointment by President Ebert of a small directorate with dictatorial powers under the emergency law. Chancellor Stresemann announced, however, that a new ministry would be formed without delay.

The fall of the cabinet was due to an unbridgeable chasm between the right and left parties, the technical obstacle to agreement being the opposition of the Social Democrats to the reorganization of the cabinet to include the nationalists and to the abolition of the eight-hour day.

The direct cause of the crisis was undoubtedly the exposure of the secret military preparations of the nationalist organizations to put through a "putsch," beginning with the attempt of the "black reichswehr" at Kues-trin Sunday.

The right wing of the People's party, of which Dr. Stresemann was the leader before he became chancellor, is greatly impressed with the danger of an attempted revolt from the right radicals, and therefore have been urging Stresemann to give ear to the "German nationalists" and their program. On the other hand there has been an intense conflict between the Social Democrats and the bourgeois parties over the modification of the eight-hour law.

There was a general agreement that no patching up of the coalition government could be of more than temporary duration. For this reason many parliamentarians have been advocating taking the bull by the horns and carrying out the proposed plan of establishing a military dictatorship for Germany, dissolving parliament entirely. The internal situation is made more critical by the unrelenting attitude of the French and Belgians in the Ruhr, despite the giving up of passive resistance by the Germans. Reports continue of the seizure of German money and the deportation of inhabitants, and other continued prosecutions.

Another alarming rise in prices of foodstuffs and necessities resulted from the drop in the mark, which, officially quoted at 440,000,000 to the dollar, after the close of the bourse went to more than 500,000,000.

TAXES WITHHELD

Bavaria Openly Defies the Federal German Government.

Munich, Oct. 4.—Bavaria has decided to openly defy the federal German government.

Dictator Von Kahr, who has succeeded to absolute power by stepping into the shoes of Premier Von Knilling, who resigned Tuesday, issued a decree forbidding the payment of taxes by Bavaria to the reich. General Ludendorff defined his attitude toward the different groups in Bavaria, saying: "Everybody who today, without reservations or reactions of any kind and, solely moved by a feeling of responsibility to the people and the fatherland, stands up for the unity of Germany as a national, federal state, for Germany's freedom and for spiritual, moral, social, economic and national ideas, will find a helper in me regardless of where he stands otherwise or who he is. I am German."

Cuban Envoy Acceptable.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Dr. Cosme De La Torriente has been pronounced "persona grata" to the United States as ambassador from Cuba. The decision to accept Dr. Torriente as Cuban envoy was arrived at a lengthy conference between Secretary of State Hughes and Ambassador Crowder and the Cuban government was informed accordingly.

Chairman Farley of the shipping board announced that gross revenue of the board during July and August aggregated $4,437,699, an increase of 35 per cent over same months last year.

MRS. HELEN STOKES

Brings Suit In New York That Her Name May Be Cleared.

Demanding that her name be cleared by the "last of her defamers," Mrs. Stokes brought suit for $1,000,000 damages against her stepson, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., son of W. E. D. Stokes, the New York hotel owner.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Bond Issue Authorized.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—The public utilities commission authorized the Ohio Power company to issue $8,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage 6 per cent bonds, to be sold at not less than 94 per cent of par, to finance improvements and additions to facilities. Projects include a generating station at Philo, Muskingum county, to cost $9,993,000; a high tension line from Philo to Canton, to cost $1,200,000; a transmission line from Fostoria to Lima, to cost $549,872; a substation at Lima, to cost $216,000; and a switching station at Lima, to cost $114,190.

Thrown From Automobile.

Cincinnati, Oct. 4.—Miss Marcella Sanborn of Chicago, telephone operator, is in a serious condition in a hospital here. She said she had been thrown out of an automobile. Hospital physicians said that Miss Sanborn was suffering from a fractured skull, cerebral concussion, fractures of both legs, a broken nose and numerous bruises and lacerations. The girl was found unconscious in the street in an outlying section of the city.

Donahay to Attend.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—Governor Donahay said he would attend the law enforcement conference of governors called by President Coolidge for Oct. 20. The invitations call for a "lunch" at the white house at 2 p. m., followed by discussion of general law enforcement, with particular attention to prohibition, immigration and narcotic laws. Heads of government departments concerned will attend the conference.

Beer Shipment Seized.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—A carload of what appeared to be real beer is in the custody of Federal Prohibition Agent Charles H. Burns. The beer, 140 kegs, was seized by Burns and his agents in a boxcar on the Nickel Plate railroad tracks. The carload was billed to the Clark Manufacturing company, Cleveland, from the Penn Specialty company, Elmira, N. Y.

Probing Drowning of Child.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—An investigation of the drowning of Myron Coulson in an abandoned cistern near his home in Mayfield township was started by Sheriff Stannard. The child was drowned late Tuesday. The boy left his home shortly after noon with a group of playmates. Mrs. Edward T. Coulson, the mother, found the body immersed in the cistern.

Controversy Causes Concern.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The controversy between Mexico and Venezuela is causing considerable concern to the United States government. State department officials admitted that the break in diplomatic relations between the two countries was not unexpected, as they have been strained for a long time. The attitude of the department at the present time, it was explained, is that of a friendly observer.

RULING MADE BY DAUGHERTY

National Banks Can Not Engage in Branch Banking.

DAWES SOUNDS A WARNING

Development of State Branch Banking, Unless Curbed, Will Result in Elimination of the National Banking System and Thereby Ultimately Destroy the Federal Reserve System—Comptroller's Statement.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Announcing a formal ruling by Attorney General Daugherty that national banks can not engage in general branch banking, Comptroller of the Currency Henry M. Dawes served this startling warning on the joint congressional banking commission:

"That the development of (state) branch banking, unless curbed, will result in the elimination of the national banking system, and thereby ultimately destroy the federal reserve system, and substitute therefor privately controlled reserve systems of branch banks."

Comptroller Dawes pointed out to the commission, which is investigating the cause of the refusal of many state banks to join the federal reserve system, that branch banking now is being practiced in 18 states. He asserted that this practice has "developed to a point in some states that the balance of the federal reserve system is disturbed to such an extent as to be a decided menace."

The comptroller emphasized that the branch banking question has passed the stage for "academic discussion" and now presents "the outstanding problem in our banking system today." He said it is "distinctly a practical and not a theoretical issue."

Comptroller Dawes' statement revealed a sharp difference of opinion within the federal reserve board in the branch banking controversy. Governor D. R. Crissinger of the reserve board approved the practice in his testimony before the joint commission.

To clarify the situation, Mr. Dawes said he asked for an opinion from the attorney general, "which has just been handed down." Analyzing the opinion, he said:

"The opinion makes it clear that none of the major or important incidental functions of a national bank may be exercised beyond the limits of the city in which the parent institution is located. This opinion also indicates that certain functions of a national bank, incident to the banking business, may be carried out at fixed points within the city limits and outside of the four walls of the banking house."

Comptroller Dawes was explicit in the statement that a national bank should not be permitted to establish these outside activities in any states or cities where state laws or practices prohibit state banks from operating similar facilities.

As a remedy for the grave condition he pictured the comptroller recommended that membership in the federal reserve system be denied to state banks doing a general branch banking business, and that member banks be definitely limited in accordance with the attorney general's ruling.

WANTS STATE PROBE

Counsel For Webb Claims Case Is Not Being Properly Handled.

New York, Oct. 4.—With the cause of Miss Gertrude Webb's death still in doubt and litigation over her $200,000 estate under way in the courts, counsel for Charles Webb, the husband, threatened to take the matter to Governor Smith and ask that the inquiry be placed in the hands of the attorney general, as was done in the ward case.

Irving Burdick, counsel for Webb, said that friends of the family, as well as Webb, believed that the case was not being properly handled and had decided to take the case to the governor.

Burdick's announcement was made shortly after Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, poison expert of Bellevue hospital, announced that he had found traces of mercury in Mrs. Webb's vital organs, but could not say as yet whether it had caused death. "I have not finished my analysis," said Dr. Gettler. "Later I will make a detailed report. At present all I can say is that I have found mercury in the viscera."

PIG IRON PRODUCTION

Daily Output Now Back to 104,000 Ton Rate of January.

New York, Oct. 4.—The Iron Age says: Complete returns compiled on Oct. 2 show a pig iron production of 13,125,512 tons in the 30 days of September, or 104,184 tons a day, against 13,449,493 tons in August, or 111,274 tons a day. After having reached a daily rate of 124,000 tons at the peak in May, pig iron output is now back to the 104,000 ton rate of January. Eighteen furnaces were blown out in September and three were blown in. The 255 in blast Oct. 1 represent a daily capacity of about 101,000 tons against 106,590 tons for the 270 furnaces in blast one month previous. Finished steel remains at 2,775 cents per pound for the eleventh consecutive week. One year ago it was 2,474 cents per pound—the highest figure of 1922.

THREATS RECEIVED BY GOVERNOR WALTON

Legal Action Taken to Have Courts Invalidate Election.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 4.—Threats of assassination of Governor J. C. Walton caused extra guards to be placed about the executive mansion.

Governor Walton made known himself that his life has been threatened. "The Ku Klux Klan guns of the nation are now trained on me, and I am daily in receipt of threats of assassination," he said. "But I had rather die by the hand of an assassin than die the death of a coward. The war on the invisible empire goes on. There will be no quarter asked or shown."

Continuing returns on the election showed that the initiative petition No. 79 has won by about 4 to 1. Latest figures compiled gave: Yes, 170,830; no, 49,024.

Petition No. 79, a proposed constitutional amendment, would provide the legislature with power to convene itself for the purpose of instituting impeachment proceedings against the governor or other high state official. It was regarded by many as the weather vane of Governor Walton's strength.

The governor does not so regard it, however. He does not recognize it as an election. "It was a 'rump' holiday for the klansmen," he asserted laughing. He continued: "Approximately 300,000 voters of the state refused to participate in the election on Oct. 2, which was declared illegally called by proclamation of the governor."

The governor began legal action to have the courts invalidate the voting. A temporary injunction was granted him in the district court, restraining the state election board from certifying the result of the election, and Oct. 9 was the date set for the hearing on whether the restraining order should be made permanent.

The direct cause of the crisis was undoubtedly the exposure of the secret military preparations of the nationalistic organizations to put through a "putsch," beginning with the attempt of the "black reichswehr" at Kues-trin Sunday.

The right wing of the People's party, of which Dr. Stresemann was the leader before he became chancellor, is greatly impressed with the danger of an attempted revolt from the right radicals, and therefore have been urging Stresemann to give ear to the "German nationalists" and their program. On the other hand there has been an intense conflict between the Social Democrats and the bourgeois parties over the modification of the eight-hour law.

There was a general agreement that no patching up of the coalition government could be of more than temporary duration. For this reason many parliamentarians have been advocating taking the bull by the horns and carrying out the proposed plan of establishing a military dictatorship for Germany, dissolving parliament entirely. The internal situation is made more critical by the unrelenting attitude of the French and Belgians in the Ruhr, despite the giving up of passive resistance by the Germans. Reports continue of the seizure of German money and the deportation of inhabitants, and other continued prosecutions.

Another alarming rise in prices of foodstuffs and necessities resulted from the drop in the mark, which, officially quoted at 440,000,000 to the dollar, after the close of the bourse went to more than 500,000,000.

TAXES WITHHELD

Bavaria Openly Defies the Federal German Government.

Munich, Oct. 4.—Bavaria has decided to openly defy the federal German government.

Dictator Von Kahr, who has succeeded to absolute power by stepping into the shoes of Premier Von Knilling, who resigned Tuesday, issued a decree forbidding the payment of taxes by Bavaria to the reich. General Ludendorff defined his attitude toward the different groups in Bavaria, saying: "Everybody who today, without reservations or reactions of any kind and, solely moved by a feeling of responsibility to the people and the fatherland, stands up for the unity of Germany as a national, federal state, for Germany's freedom and for spiritual, moral, social, economic and national ideas, will find a helper in me regardless of where he stands otherwise or who he is. I am German."

Probing Drowning of Child.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—An investigation of the drowning of Myron Coulson in an abandoned cistern near his home in Mayfield township was started by Sheriff Stannard. The child was drowned late Tuesday. The boy left his home shortly after noon with a group of playmates. Mrs. Edward T. Coulson, the mother, found the body immersed in the cistern.

Controversy Causes Concern.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The controversy between Mexico and Venezuela is causing considerable concern to the United States government. State department officials admitted that the break in diplomatic relations between the two countries was not unexpected, as they have been strained for a long time. The attitude of the department at the present time, it was explained, is that of a friendly observer.

RULING MADE BY DAUGHERTY

National Banks Can Not Engage in Branch Banking.

DAWES SOUNDS A WARNING

Development of State Branch Banking, Unless Curbed, Will Result in Elimination of the National Banking System and Thereby Ultimately Destroy the Federal Reserve System—Comptroller's Statement.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Announcing a formal ruling by Attorney General Daugherty that national banks can not engage in general branch banking, Comptroller of the Currency Henry M. Dawes served this startling warning on the joint congressional banking commission:

"That the development of (state) branch banking, unless curbed, will result in the elimination of the national banking system, and thereby ultimately destroy the federal reserve system, and substitute therefor privately controlled reserve systems of branch banks."

Comptroller Dawes pointed out to the commission, which is investigating the cause of the refusal of many state banks to join the federal reserve system, that branch banking now is being practiced in 18 states. He asserted that this practice has "developed to a point in some states that the balance of the federal reserve system is disturbed to such an extent as to be a decided menace."

The comptroller emphasized that the branch banking question has passed the stage for "academic discussion" and now presents "the outstanding problem in our banking system today." He said it is "distinctly a practical and not a theoretical issue."

Comptroller Dawes' statement revealed a sharp difference of opinion within the federal reserve board in the branch banking controversy. Governor D. R. Crissinger of the reserve board approved the practice in his testimony before the joint commission.

To clarify the situation, Mr. Dawes said he asked for an opinion from the attorney general, "which has just been handed down." Analyzing the opinion, he said:

"The opinion makes it clear that none of the major or important incidental functions of a national bank may be exercised beyond the limits of the city in which the parent institution is located. This opinion also indicates that certain functions of a national bank, incident to the banking business, may be carried out at fixed points within the city limits and outside of the four walls of the banking house."

Comptroller Dawes was explicit in the statement that a national bank should not be permitted to establish these outside activities in any states or cities where state laws or practices prohibit state banks from operating similar facilities.

As a remedy for the grave condition he pictured the comptroller recommended that membership in the federal reserve system be denied to state banks doing a general branch banking business, and that member banks be definitely limited in accordance with the attorney general's ruling.

WANTS STATE PROBE

Counsel For Webb Claims Case Is Not Being Properly Handled.

New York, Oct. 4.—With the cause of Miss Gertrude Webb's death still in doubt and litigation over her $2,000,000 estate under way in the courts, counsel for Charles Webb, the husband, threatened to take the matter to Governor Smith and ask that the inquiry be placed in the hands of the attorney general, as was done in the ward case.

Irving Burdick, counsel for Webb, said that friends of the family, as well as Webb, believed that the case was not being properly handled and had decided to take the case to the governor.

Burdick's announcement was made shortly after Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, poison expert of Bellevue hospital, announced that he had found traces of mercury in Mrs. Webb's vital organs, but could not say as yet whether it had caused death. "I have not finished my analysis," said Dr. Gettler. "Later I will make a detailed report. At present all I can say is that I have found mercury in the viscera."

PIG IRON PRODUCTION

Daily Output Now Back to 104,000 Ton Rate of January.

New York, Oct. 4.—The Iron Age says: Complete returns compiled on Oct. 2 show a pig iron production of 13,125,512 tons in the 30 days of September, or 104,184 tons a day, against 13,449,493 tons in August, or 111,274 tons a day. After having reached a daily rate of 124,000 tons at the peak in May, pig iron output is now back to the 104,000 ton rate of January. Eighteen furnaces were blown out in September and three were blown in. The 255 in blast Oct. 1 represent a daily capacity of about 101,000 tons against 106,590 tons for the 270 furnaces in blast one month previous. Finished steel remains at 2.775 cents per pound for the eleventh consecutive week. One year ago it was 2.474 cents per pound—the highest figure of 1922.

THREATS RECEIVED BY GOVERNOR WALTON

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 4.—Threats of assassination of Governor J. C. Walton caused extra guards to be placed about the executive mansion.

Governor Walton made known himself that his life has been threatened. "The Ku Klux Klan guns of the nation are now trained on me, and I am daily in receipt of threats of assassination," he said. "But I had rather die by the hand of an assassin than die the death of a coward. The war on the invisible empire goes on. There will be no quarter asked or shown."

Continuing returns on the election showed that the initiative petition No. 79 has won by about 4 to 1. Latest figures compiled gave: Yes, 170,830; no, 49,024.

Petition No. 79, a proposed constitutional amendment, would provide the legislature with power to convene itself for the purpose of instituting impeachment proceedings against the governor or other high state official. It was regarded by many as the weather vane of Governor Walton's strength.

The governor does not so regard it, however. He does not recognize it as an election. "It was a 'rump' holiday for the klansmen," he asserted laughing. He continued: "Approximately 300,000 voters of the state refused to participate in the election on Oct. 2, which was declared illegally called by proclamation of the governor."

The governor began legal action to have the courts invalidate the voting. A temporary injunction was granted him in the district court, restraining the state election board from certifying the result of the election, and Oct. 9 was the date set for the hearing on whether the restraining order should be made permanent.

The last definition of a knocker. After the Lord had finished making the snake, the toad and the vampire He had some awful substance left of which He made a knocker. A knocker is a two legged animal with a cork-screw soul, a water soaked brain and a combination backbone of jelly and glue.

Art Very Important in Japan.

In Japan and China art collecting is done on a broad scale and the collection is equal in class. Also, Japan has art in showing and using art, and has art in looking and admiring. A Japanese house is decorated with one painting, and one vase with flowers and few other things, and that is all, in one room. It may look bare, but if you are invited often you see different decorations, according to the season, in assortment and harmony. In a western home everything is exposed at one time and you know what is in the home the first visit. The Japanese way of showing art is admirable because the Japanese select objects according to the taste of the guest and also according to the season. Art is regarded as very important—next to life.

Green the Coolest Color.

There are "hot" and "cold" colors, according to advertising experts. A picture containing red or its affiliated colors will make a spectator feel warm, while one containing green or blue will produce a sensation of coolness.

The reason is simple. The mind subconsciously connects red with the glowing embers of a fire, while green carries with it the memory of cool, shady trees. Blue is symbolic of ocean depths, and conveys the impression of coolness, but not so vividly and effectively as does green.

Hammering Pipes.

Sometimes water-pipes seem to knock, or hammer. This is usually due to the presence of air in the pipe. The supply has perhaps been turned off at the main and the water drawn off, in which case the pipe has become full of air. The turning on of the tap will then bring about a conflict between the air and water, the latter "bouncing," as it were, against anything like a bend that stops its progress. Or again, the sudden shutting off of a tap may bounce a ball valve, causing the ball to jump in the cistern, its motion being transmitted all down the pipe it serves.

Inflation.

They are telling in Moscow a good story of a profiteer who sat in the best restaurant guzzling away regardless of expense. "How can you gorge yourself like that," asked a friend, "when so many millions are starving on the Volga?"

The profiteer took his knife from his mouth. "That's all right," he protested, "you know what soviet millions are."

Capitalizing Enthusiasm.

"You can't get something for nothing," remarked the ready-made philosopher.

"Several of my constituents think they can come pretty near it," replied Senator Sorghum. "They don't do anything but lift up their voices in the confident expectation that they can exchange three cheers for a government job."

The Scrap Book

USED THE FIRST WALL PAPER

William of Orange Introduced It in England—Was Originally Made in Sheets.

William of Orange is given the credit for introducing wall paper into England. It was first made in sheets, but after the lapse of one hundred years rolls were found more convenient. Most of the papers in use are printed by machinery, but some are still printed by hand, and others painted. The price of a paper depends upon the quality of material, and also upon the printing. As a rule very cheap papers have no background, so that it is the ground rather than the pattern that indicates quality. New patterns are brought out every season by the makers, and it will be found that patterns a year old, not included in the new range, are usually to be obtained at a cheaper rate. As very few people can tell whether a wall paper is out of date or not, the saving is sometimes worth consideration. British wall papers are usually 12 yards long and 21 inches wide, but French papers are only 9 yards long and 18 inches wide; a paperhanger generally allows one roll in seven for waste. Bathroom papers are usually printed in oil colors or in washable distemper; and there are now some beautiful wall coverings printed on cotton which is used as a substitute for silk tapestry.

LISTS VOICES OF THE NIGHT

Victim of Insomnia Has Various Ones Catalogued and Scheduled.

"At first, with my insomnia when I came to live in town" said Mrs. Gunysack to a friend, "I found the nights particularly trying. Every noise would awaken me when I was just dozing off. An overwhelming desire to know the time would take possession of me and the movement of reaching for my watch to see would effectually drive all sleep from me. Now things are different and I even get a good deal of fun out of my wakefulness."

"I retire every night about ten. At about eleven the people downstairs stop playing their phonograph; at midnight the player piano of another neighbor stops; approximately at one o'clock street noises die down; at two a milkman starts moving over my head preparatory to going to work. At four a fleet of trucks goes by the house; at five the milkman is back again and from six on a succession of alarm clocks begin their dutiful warnings."

"But I notice you have no telltale sound for three o'clock," remarked a listener.

"Oh three o'clock," smiled Mrs. Gunysack, "that's the hour when the man across the hall comes stumbling up the stairs."—New York Sun-Globe.

Must Be a Warrior Thirty Years.

Readers of Rider Haggard will remember the Masai, the fierce African tribe of slaughterers. A Masai is not allowed to marry until he has completed 30 years' service as a warrior. He is not allowed even to have possessions during this long period of service. He is during that time, himself regarded as a possession of the tribe. Age, however, ushers in a paradise. He may then marry a dozen wives if he wishes. Marriage is, of course, a costly affair, for, apart from supporting these wives he has to purchase them. A man may pay a cow and a goat as the first installment for a wife on the wedding day. All these old men pick the youngest and prettiest girls in the tribe. They live lives of leisure ease, waited on by many attendant wives.

Calf Has Wooden Leg.

A calf that has to be assembled every morning is the property of a Missourian near Moberly. When the animal was two days old it accidentally lost the lower part of its right hind leg. Reluctant to sacrifice a heifer calf from the best cow in his herd the Missourian devised an artificial leg attached to a leather casing which he hitches on the animal every morning. The calf takes kindly to the device and bawls loudly for her leg if the owner is late in assembling her parts.

Prayer of the Tree.

Upon a tree in Portugal a traveler read this appeal: Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, harken ere you harm me. I am the heat of your hearth on the cold winter nights; the friendly shade screaming you from the summer sun. And my fruits are refreshing drafts, quenching your thirst as you journey on. I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, the bed you lie on, the timber that builds your boat. I am the handle of your hoe, your door, the wood of your cradle and coffin.

Dangerous Liquids.

Gasoline, ether and benzine could not be kept on shelves in a cabinet in the house, the national board of fire underwriters says in a recent article. It is exceedingly dangerous, as either gasoline or benzine gives off an ordinary temperature inflammable vapor. Through these vapors, a light at a distance may ignite the liquid. If there is a small leak in the container in which any of the liquids are kept, sufficient vapor may form to cause a violent explosion. With ether the danger is even greater than with gasoline or benzine.

Safeguard Against Dangerous Fumes

Flue Connections and Ventilation

Never sleep in an unventilated room with a gas fire burning; nor occupy a bath room under similar conditions. Connecting appliances to flues is a partial safeguard and we recommend it when possible, but flues may clog or have back-drafts. Millions of consumers successfully used open gas-burning appliances by providing ample ventilation. Every asphyxiation in Ohio last winter would have been prevented if this simple precaution had been taken.

Inspect and Clean Out Your Chimneys

"A hand mirror held at the proper angle at the base affords a means of examination for obstructions. Usual causes of stoppage are broken tile leaning inward, mortar accumulations, loose bricks, birds' nests, partly burned paper, soot from soft coal, tarry deposits from burning wood, etc. A weighted bag of hay or straw attached to the end of a rope may be passed up and down the flue to it if there is not too great an offset in it." (U. S. Government Report)

Clean All Gas Appliances Frequently

Gas Ranges

Remove and boil all range burners once a month in water containing enough common washing soda to remove all foreign substances; clean all air ports and mixers of lint, grease and dust. Adjust air and gas mixture to a non-luminous blue flame. Supply secondary air to gas flame by using raised skeleton lids. Restrict flames from direct contact with cooking vessels.

Gas Heaters

Take apart and thoroughly clean all gas heaters before each winter and two or three times during the heating season, especially the mixers, burner ports, port screens, mixing chambers and other used parts. These parts must be kept free from lint, dust, carbon, and other substances to insure safe, satisfactory service. With radiant types of heaters remove and clean the mantles, clean the back-wall, thoroughly clean the burner screens and tubes, and blow and wipe out mixing chamber and air intake. Keep them adjusted as directed by the manufacturers.

Water Heaters

Carefully clean and adjust the water heater burners and mixers at frequent intervals, and remove all carbon or other foreign substances from the tank or coils.

Test House Piping for Leaks

At least once a year test your house piping and appliance connections for leaks. Mix a heavy soap suds and with a cotton swab or brush thoroughly cover all pipe joints at valves, couplings, elbows, unions, etc., with suds and if bubbles appear you know a leak exists. Never test for leaks with a torch or matches because an explosion may result.

Our Co-Operation

If you need further instructions or notice disagreeable odors from your appliances and are unable to make corrections, we will examine them and give needed advice. Give as much care to our gas appliances as is lavished on your family fliover.

The last definition of a knocker. After the Lord had finished making the snake, the toad and the vampire He had some awful substance left of which He made a knocker. A knocker is a two legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water soaked brain and a combination backbone of jelly and glue.

Art Very Important in Japan.

In Japan and China art collecting is done on a broad scale and the collection is equal in class. Also, Japan has art in showing and using art, and has art in looking and admiring. A Japanese house is decorated with one painting, and one vase with flowers and few other things, and that is all, in one room. It may look bare, but if you are invited often you see different decorations, according to the season, in assortment and harmony. In a western home everything is exposed at one time and you know what is in the home the first visit. The Japanese way of showing art is admirable because the Japanese select objects according to the taste of the guest and also according to the season. Art is regarded as very important—next to life.

Green the Coolest Color.

There are "hot" and "cold" colors, according to advertising experts. A picture containing red or its affiliated colors will make a spectator feel warm, while one containing green or blue will produce a sensation of coolness.

The reason is simple. The mind subconsciously connects red with the glowing embers of a fire, while green carries with it the memory of cool, shady trees. Blue is symbolic of ocean depths, and conveys the impression of coolness, but not so vividly and effectively as does green.

Hammering Pipes.

Sometimes water-pipes seem to knock, or hammer. This is usually due to the presence of air in the pipe. The supply has perhaps been turned off at the main and the water drawn off, in which case the pipe has become full of air. The turning on of the tap will then bring about a conflict between the air and water, the latter "bouncing," as it were, against anything like a bend that stops its progress. Or again, the sudden shutting off of a tap may bounce a ball valve, causing the ball to jump in the elster, its motion being transmitted all down the pipe it serves.

Inflation.

They are telling in Moscow a good story of a profiteer who sat in the best restaurant guzzling away regardless of expense. "How can you gorge yourself like that," asked a friend, "when so many millions are starving on the Volga?"

The profiteer took his knife from his mouth. "That's all right," he protested, "you know what soviet millions are."

Capitalizing Enthusiasm.

"You can't get something for nothing," remarked the ready-made philosopher.

"Several of my constituents think they can come pretty near it," replied Senator Sorghum. "They don't do anything but lift up their voices in the confident expectation that they can exchange three cheers for a government job."

USED THE FIRST WALL PAPER

William of Orange introduced it in England—Was Originally Made in Sheets.

William of Orange is given the credit for introducing wall paper into England. It was first made in sheets, but after the lapse of one hundred years rolls were found more convenient. Most of the papers in use are printed by machinery, but some are still printed by hand, and others painted. The price of a paper depends upon the quality of material, and also upon the printing. As a rule very cheap papers have no background, so that it is the ground rather than the pattern that indicates quality. New patterns are brought out every season by the makers, and it will be found that patterns a year old, not included in the new range, are usually to be obtained at a cheaper rate. As very few people can tell whether a wall paper is out of date or not, the saving is sometimes worth consideration. British wall papers are usually 12 yards long and 21 inches wide, but French papers are only 9 yards long and 18 inches wide; a paperhanger generally allows one roll in seven for waste. Bathroom papers are usually printed in oil colors or in washable distemper; and there are now some beautiful wall coverings printed on cotton which is used as a substitute for silk tapestry.

LISTS VOICES OF THE NIGHT

Victim of Insomnia Has Various Ones Catalogued and Scheduled.

"At first, with my insomnia when I came to live in town" said Mrs. Gunysack to a friend, "I found the nights particularly trying. Every noise would awaken me when I was just dozing off. An overwhelming desire to know the time would take possession of me and the movement of reaching for my watch to see would effectually drive all sleep from me. Now things are different and I even get a good deal of fun out of my wakefulness."

"I retire every night about ten. At about eleven the people downstairs stop playing their phonograph; at midnight the player piano of another neighbor stops; approximately at one o'clock street noises die down; at two a milkman starts moving over my head preparatory to going to work. At four a fleet of trucks goes by the house; at five the milkman is back again and from six on a succession of alarm clocks begin their dutiful warnings."

"But I notice you have no telltale sound for three o'clock," remarked a listener.

"Oh three o'clock," smiled Mrs. Gunysack, "that's the hour when the man across the hall comes stumbling up the stairs."—New York Sun-Globe.

Must Be a Warrior Thirty Years.

Readers of Rider Haggard will remember the Masai, the fierce African tribe of slaughterers. A Masai is not allowed to marry until he has completed 30 years' service as a warrior. He is not allowed even to have possessions during this long period of service. He is during that time, himself regarded as a possession of the tribe. Age, however, ushers in a paradise. He may then marry a dozen wives if he wishes. Marriage is, of course, a costly affair, for apart from supporting these wives he has to purchase them. A man may pay a cow and a goat as the first installment for a wife on the wedding day. All these old men pick the youngest and prettiest girls in the tribe. They live lives of leisure ease, waited on by many attendant wives.

Calf Has Wooden Leg.

A calf that has to be assembled every morning is the property of a Missourian near Moberly. When the animal was two days old it accidentally lost the lower part of its right hind leg. Reluctant to sacrifice a heifer calf from the best cow in his herd the Missourian devised an artificial leg attached to a leather casing which he hitches on the animal every morning. The calf takes kindly to the device and bawls loudly for her leg if the owner is late in assembling her parts.

Prayer of the Tree.

Upon a tree in Portugal a traveler read this appeal: Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, harken ere you harm me. I am the heat of your hearth on the cold winter nights; the friendly shade screening you from the summer sun. And my fruits are refreshing drafts, quenching your thirst as you journey on. I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, the bed you lie on, the timber that builds your boat. I am the handle of your hoe, your door, the wood of your cradle and coffin.

Dangerous Liquids.

Gasoline, ether and benzene could not be kept on shelves in a cabinet in the house, the national board of fire underwriters says in a recent article. It is exceedingly dangerous, as either gasoline or benzene gives off at ordinary temperature inflammable vapor. Through these vapors, a light at a distance may ignite the liquid. If there is a small leak in the container in which any of the liquids are kept, sufficient vapor may form to cause a violent explosion. With ether the danger is even greater than with gasoline or benzene.

Safeguard Against Dangerous Fumes

Flue Connections and Ventilation

Never sleep in an unventilated room with a gas fire burning; nor occupy a bath room under similar conditions. Connecting appliances to flues is a partial safeguard and we recommend it when possible, but flues may clog or have back-drafts. Millions of consumers successfully used open gas-burning appliances by providing ample ventilation. Every asphyxiation in Ohio last winter would have been prevented if this simple precaution had been taken.

Magic.
By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

HENRY had brains, but he was a blunderbuss. His stenographer, Mary Crocker, believed in keeping her eye on him, and when his brains won him a promotion in the foundry, she kept to herself the suspicion that the blunderbuss part of him would sooner or later get him into trouble.

There were two factors hostile to his success. One was a natural antipathy to the efficiency methods of minutely subdivided bookkeeping and cost accounting as practiced in the general office. The other was a rival in another department, one of the few other departments which had not yet been put under his charge. In this department, by the way, Mary's brother Jim also worked.

The rival's name was Peter Revere and he was unmitigatedly jealous of Henry's promotion.

The fifth person concerned in this little drama was familiarly known as the "boss." Spoken to, that was his title. Spoken to, he was Mr. Stockbridge. Stockbridge, Wallace M., in the telephone book. He owned the foundry.

Recently there had been a bit of trouble somewhere. A vast supply—enough to last for years—of European thread had been accumulating without rhyme or reason. Henry was frankly puzzled. While most of the routing of material was in his hands there was one department which he had not taken over, and he surmised that some one there was acting according to orders from higher up.

But there was another little rift in his lute which for the moment was causing a greater discord and drowning out other harsh sounds.

His stenographer had something else up her sleeve besides a plump well-rounded arm. Henry had caught glimpses of filing cards of a color and size which he knew had no meaning in his department. Caught once studying them, she had flushed uncomfortably and thrust them out of sight in a pigeonhole in her desk.

Henry flattered himself he had a very fatherly feeling for all the girls in his office, especially Mary. But Henry, in his blunderbuss fashion, wasn't hep to the real directions in which his feelings were leading him.

Then everything happened at once. To begin with, it started on a back page of a popular magazine. W. M. Stockbridge, pursuing a story through the advertisements, happened instead on an efficiency blurb and took it all in, as he periodically did.

Next morning he set out on a tour of the foundry, resolved to find something which needed correction. Running into Peter Revere, he soon discovered quite as much as, if not more than, he had hoped for. In the course of conversation the fact leaked out that there were enough three-quarter-inch European threaded couplings to connect the desert of Sahara with the canals of Mars.

"Who ordered them?" demanded the boss.

Peter shrugged his shoulders and remained discreetly silent.

"H'm!" grunted Stockbridge, and strode into Henry's sanctum, where Henry was paternally watching the soft curve of Mary's cheek as she bent above his dictation.

"I'd like to know who is responsible for those ten tons of couplings," he bellowed at Henry. "Show me just how much you've ordered made up in the past year!" He threw a choleric glance at the filing cabinets.

Henry swallowed bravely, and looked hopefully at Mary. He didn't recall having gone on record for any particular order, come to think of it. Had just had it done, and that was the end of it.

But Mary turned obediently. Only, strange to say, what she handed over to Henry was that bunch of cards he had once caught her examining. Surprised, he looked them through.

Then he cleared his throat. "Mr. Stockbridge, you probably won't be interested in what little I've had made up," he said briskly. "But here's what's been sent in from another department and accounts for about nine tons."

He handed them over to the boss, who gave them a short scrutiny and then stalked out to blow up Peter Revere.

"How in time for the love of Mike did you collect all that data?" asked Henry curiously when he and Mary were alone.

"Oh, I had a bit of an idea that that Revere was trying to put something over on you," said Mary demurely. "My brother Jim's in his department and I got him to make copies of the orders. They were spread over some time and in small lots, but Revere probably knows how careless—that is, I mean how you don't keep records, and thought he saw a chance to get even with you for your promotion over him."

"I see. Thank you, Mary," said Henry soberly.

Then he took first one slender hand and then the other tenderly in his. "Mary," he said (and his tone was not in the least paternal), "you are just the person I need to keep me out of trouble. How about undertaking the job for life?"

Mary threw him a roguish glance from beneath her curly lashes.

"Rather a large order, Henry," she said. "But—I'll try!"

Sparrow Hawk Useful.
There is a long list of hawks in the country, and the sparrow hawk is the smallest of the family, says Nature Magazine. In so far as our interests are concerned, it is a most useful bird, for it feeds on mice, on not a few insect pests, as crickets and grasshoppers, also on spiders and the rest.

Lowered the Temperature.
I proposed for the first time to the girl of my heart on the crowded platform of an elevated station during the well-known rush hour. It was a cold, miserable evening and I wasn't warmed up at all by the young lady's curt, firm and cutting refusal.—Chicago Journal.

Fashions Here and There.
A South Sea Island maiden beautifies herself with a brass ring in her nose. An American woman of fashion does the same with a pearl in her ear. The ring is more serviceable—you can hold her by it, if nothing more.—Voo Doo.

"At the outset a firm tone was in evidence." Perhaps you think the writer was reviewing a violin recital. He was not. He was reviewing the day's activities on the New York stock exchange.—Kansas City Star.

Magie.
By using high explosives, government chemists turn laces and leaves of trees into iron. For instance, a leaf can be pasted to an iron bowl and, while the explosive destroys the original leaf, it is reproduced in all details as a design on the iron. This magical process enslaves molecules flying four miles a second during the explosion. It suggests that the greatest discoveries of the next century will be microscopic. A LARGE ORDER
(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

HENRY had brains, but he was a blunderbuss. His stenographer, Mary Crocker, believed in keeping her eye on him, and when his brains won him a promotion in the foundry, she kept to herself the suspicion that the blunderbuss part of him would sooner or later get him into trouble.

There were two factors hostile to his success. One was a natural antipathy to the efficiency methods of minutely subdivided bookkeeping and cost accounting as practiced in the general office. The other was a rival in another department, one of the few other departments which had not yet been put under his charge. In this department, by the way, Mary's brother Jim also worked.

The rival's name was Peter Revere and he was unmitigatedly jealous of Henry's promotion.

The fifth person concerned in this little drama was familiarly known as the "boss." Spoken of, that was his title. Spoken to, he was Mr. Stockbridge. Stockbridge, Wallace M., in the telephone book. He owned the foundry.

Recently there had been a bit of trouble somewhere. A vast supply—enough to last for years—of European thread had been accumulating without rhyme or reason. Henry was frankly puzzled. While most of the routing of material was in his hands there was one department which he had not taken over, and he surmised that some one there was acting according to orders from higher up.

But there was another little rift in his lute which for the moment was causing a greater discord and drowning out other harsh sounds.

His stenographer had something else up her sleeve besides a plump well-rounded arm. Henry had caught glimpses of filing cards of a color and size which he knew had no meaning in his department. Caught once studying them, she had flushed uncomfortably and thrust them out of sight in a pigeonhole in her desk.

Henry flattered himself he had a very fatherly feeling for all the girls in his office, especially Mary. But Henry, in his blunderbuss fashion, wasn't hep to the real directions in which his feelings were leading him.

Then everything happened at once. To begin with, it started on a back page of a popular magazine. W. M. Stockbridge, pursuing a story through the advertisements, happened instead on an efficiency blurb and took it all in, as he periodically did.

Next morning he set out on a tour of the foundry, resolved to find something which needed correction. Running into Peter Revere, he soon discovered quite as much as, if not more than, he had hoped for. In the course of conversation the fact leaked out that there were enough three-quarter-inch European threaded couplings to connect the desert of Sahara with the canals of Mars.

"Who ordered them?" demanded the boss.

Peter shrugged his shoulders and remained discreetly silent.

"H'm!" grunted Stockbridge, and strode into Henry's sanctum, where Henry was paternally watching the soft curve of Mary's cheek as she bent above his dictation.

"I'd like to know who is responsible for those ten tons of couplings," he bellowed at Henry. "Show me just how much you've ordered made up in the past year!" He threw a choleric glance at the filing cabinets.

Henry swallowed bravely, and looked hopefully at Mary. He didn't recall having gone on record for any particular order, come to think of it. Had just had it done, and that was the end of it.

But Mary turned obediently. Only, strange to say, what she handed over to Henry was that bunch of cards he had once caught her examining. Surprised, he looked them through.

Then he cleared his throat. "Mr. Stockbridge, you probably won't be interested in what little I've had made up," he said briskly. "But here's what's been sent in from another department and accounts for about nine tons."

He handed them over to the boss, who gave them a short scrutiny and then stalked out to blow up Peter Revere.

"How in time for the love of Mike did you collect all that data?" asked Henry curiously when he and Mary were alone.

"Oh, I had a bit of an idea that that Revere was trying to put something over on you," said Mary demurely. "My brother Jim's in his department and I got him to make copies of the orders. They were spread over some time and in small lots, but Revere probably knows how careless—that is, I mean how you don't keep records, and thought he saw a chance to get even with you for your promotion over him."

"I see. Thank you, Mary," said Henry soberly.

Then he took first one slender hand and then the other tenderly in his. "Mary," he said (and his tone was not in the least paternal), "you are just the person I need to keep me out of trouble. How about undertaking the job for life?"

Mary threw him a roguish glance from beneath her curly lashes.

"Rather a large order, Henry," she said. "But—I'll try!"

Figuring Weight of Ice.

A very close estimate of the weight of any block of ice may be ascertained by applying the following method: The volume of the ice in cubic inches is obtained by multiplying together the three dimensions. Dividing the product by 30 gives the weight of the ice in pounds. For instance, if the block is 10 by 10 by 12 inches, its volume is 1,200 cubic inches; dividing this product by 30 gives 40 pounds as the correct weight of the ice.—Popular Science Monthly.

WORK OF VETERANS' BUREAU

Improvements for Relief of Soldiers in Accord With Legion Policies, Director Says.

Practically all accomplishments of the United States veterans' bureau, regarded by Director Frank T. Hines as noteworthy improvements for the relief of the soldier, have been advocated, and are in accord with the policies of the American Legion, according to Joseph Sparks, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion.

Among the recent actions of the bureau for the relief of the disabled man have been provisions for a permanent partial status to disabled beneficiaries now receiving compensation on a temporary partial rating, thereby reducing medical examinations, eliminating inconvenience to employed beneficiaries and reducing travel and personnel.

Another forward step of the bureau, strongly advocated by the Legion, was the employment of effective methods of placement of vocational trainees, which has been successful in securing positions for 97 per cent of the trainees.

Internal changes in the operation of the bureau are the elimination of administration overhead expense, by closing 35 subdistrict offices; concentration of bureau supplies in three large central depots and inventory of all these supplies to eliminate further purchases; establishing of a record section in the supply division; consolidation of similar duties in central offices under one head; establishment of an inspection division, contemplated by the law, but never before established; the closing of contracts for institutions where settlements had not been effected and where the institutions were not being used. One of the principal achievements, declares Director Hines, is the placing of the bureau on a strict budget system.

SAVE VETERAN FROM ASYLUM

Carl Huff, a World war veteran of Alex, Okla., was saved from a madhouse because members of the American Legion auxiliary saw to it that he was sent to a hospital for observation rather than to be incarcerated in an asylum for the insane.

Huff was in overseas service for 16 months and returned broken in health. Continual brooding over the condition of a brother who had contracted tuberculosis in service, caused the man to become morbid and extremely nervous.

He was taken to Chickasha before a sanity commission, adjudged insane and ordered to the state asylum at Norman, to be accompanied by a deputy sheriff. When news reached the office of Mrs. Blanche Freeman, national executive committee member of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Freeman, through the aid of county officials, was authorized to overtake the party and direct the officer and his charge to a hospital for observation and treatment. Huff is now receiving care due an ex-service man, and the Legion is fighting his claim for compensation through with the veterans' bureau.

ANXIOUS TO HELP COMRADES

The hand of men of the American Legion is always outstretched to help a former comrade in necessity, according to the many reports reaching national headquarters of the organization. How a disabled man obtained money due him through co-operation of his Legion "buddies," was recently disclosed in a letter from Clearwater, Kansas.

Clarence English, gassed and wounded, was forced to go West to recuperate. A Wichita man owed English $100 and the boy cashed a check he gave him in payment of hospital expenses. But the check was returned and went to protest a second time. The debt was then called to the attention of a Legion post commander, who saw to it that a delegation of Legionnaires called on the creditor and paid English in full. The former soldier, through his grateful mother, expressed appreciation of the Legion's effort in settling the matter.

Remarkable Is Right.

The commuters' smoking car was filled, mostly with proud young fathers, who had been relating everlasting clever anecdotes of the clever remarks made by their offspring. Finally, Mr. Spiffington, seeking a hole in the conversation, horned in by saying:

"I don't like to talk, but I honestly think that boy of mine is the most remarkable little fellow I ever saw."

Everybody yawned.

"Yes," pursued Mr. Spiffington. "He's six years old, and, so far as I recollect, he never said a bright thing in his life."—American Legion Weekly.

"I came down to see Governor Donahey to tell him my side of the story and to get the names of persons who have complained that the laws are still being violated in Youngstown," said Reese. Give Up the Fight on the Workmen's Compensation Amendment.

Information has been received that for the first time in many years the private liability insurance companies will take no part in the canvass on the workmen's compensation amendment, which is to be acted upon by the voters in the November election.

The agreed amendment of capital and labor heads the ballot as it was submitted to the Ohio general assembly.

The retirement of the insurance interests who will be debarred under the amendment from ever participating in the compensation matter, is held by close students to mark the surrender of those forces in Ohio. In no other election or canvass in ten years have they been out of the situation.

Managers in charge of the capital and labor compensation amendment also learn that personal injury attorneys will take little part in the canvass. To these attorneys is credited the successful litigation that succeeded in the Fender case, in breaking down the former rules of the Ohio supreme court on the matter of open liability. A few attacks on the amendment were made in addresses before labor groups, but Secretary Thomas J. Donnelly recently issued a broadside reply and stopped the agitation. Since then the personal injury forces have given notice they will stop "sniping" at the amendment.

It also became known today that business interests generally will give support to the amendment proposed by Secretary of State Thad. H. Brown. The object of the amendment is to do away with publicity pamphlets for arguments on referendum matters and permit him to advertise in the newspapers. The attitude of the business men of Ohio is that newspaper advertising is "best by test" and that the state should adopt a progressive policy and employ the newspapers officially to let the people know details of governmental questions.

A joint committee of employers and workers today signed a public appeal for the compensation amendment.

Each faction sets forth the benefits to be derived mutually by workers and employers. They jointly emphasize that it protects the workmen's compensation law, wipes out open liability, provides for safety work and abolishes the "ambulance-chaser" in accident cases.

One hundred and seventy local people have subscribed to the Hinde Paper Box company $24,300. Subscribe now and help get this fine industry started.

The great industry James J. Hinde built at Sandusky and other cities, prospered because of liberal wages.

WORK OF VETERANS' BUREAU
 Improvements for Relief of Soldiers in Accord With Legion Policies, Director Says.

Practically all accomplishments of the United States veterans' bureau, regarded by Director Frank T. Hines as noteworthy improvements for the relief of the soldier, have been advocated, and are in accord with the policies of the American Legion, according to Joseph Sparks, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion.

Among the recent actions of the bureau for the relief of the disabled man have been provisions for a permanent partial status to disabled beneficiaries now receiving compensation on a temporary partial rating, thereby reducing medical examinations, eliminating inconvenience to employed beneficiaries and reducing travel and personnel.

Another forward step of the bureau, strongly advocated by the Legion, was the employment of effective methods of placement of vocational trainees, which has been successful in securing positions for 97 per cent of the trainees.

Internal changes in the operation of the bureau are the elimination of administration overhead expense, by closing 35 subdistrict offices; concentration of bureau supplies in three large central depots and inventory of all these supplies to eliminate further purchases; establishing of a record section in the supply division; consolidation of similar duties in central offices under one head; establishment of an inspection division, contemplated by the law, but never before established; the closing of contracts for institutions where settlements had not been effected and where the institutions were not being used. One of the principal achievements, declares Director Hines, is the placing of the bureau on a strict budget system.

SAVE VETERAN FROM ASYLUM

Carl Huff, a World war veteran of Alex, Okla., was saved from a madhouse because members of the American Legion auxiliary saw to it that he was sent to a hospital for observation rather than to be incarcerated in an asylum for the insane.

Huff was in overseas service for 13 months and returned broken in health. Continual brooding over the condition of a brother who had contracted tuberculosis in service, caused the man to become morbid and extremely nervous.

He was taken to Chickasha before a sanity commission, adjudged insane and ordered to the state asylum at Norman, to be accompanied by a deputy sheriff. When news reached the office of Mrs. Blanche Freeman, national executive committee member of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Freeman, through the aid of county officials, was authorized to overtake the party and direct the officer and his charge to a hospital for observation and treatment. Huff is now receiving care due an ex-service man, and the Legion is fighting his claim for compensation through with the veterans' bureau.

ANXIOUS TO HELP COMRADES

The hand of men of the American Legion is always outstretched to help a former comrade in necessity, according to the many reports reaching national headquarters of the organization. How a disabled man obtained money due him through co-operation of his Legion "buddies," was recently disclosed in a letter from Clearwater, Kansas.

Clarence English, gassed and wounded, was forced to go West to recuperate. A Wichita man owed English $100 and the boy cashed a check he gave him, in payment of hospital expenses. But the check was returned and went to protest a second time. The debt was then called to the attention of a Legion post commander, who saw to it that a delegation of Legionnaires called on the creditor and paid English in full. The former soldier, through his grateful mother, expressed appreciation of the Legion's effort in settling the matter.

Remarkable Is Right.
 The commuters' smoking car was filled, mostly with proud young fathers, who had been relating everlasting clever anecdotes of the clever remarks made by their offspring. Finally, Mr. Spiffington, seeing a hole in the conversation, horned in by saying:
 "I don't like to talk, but I honestly think that boy of mine is the most remarkable little fellow I ever saw."
 Everybody yawned.
 "Yes," pursued Mr. Spiffington. "He's six years old, and, so far as I recollect, he never said a bright thing in his life."—American Legion Weekly.

Mayor Reese Before Governor.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—Mayor William G. Reese of Youngstown was in conference with Governor Donahey regarding law enforcement in his city. This was the second time Reese was before the governor. His first visit was when the governor suspended him for alleged failure to enforce the laws, gave him a hearing and then reinstated him in office. "I came down to see Governor Donahey to tell him my side of the story and to get the names of persons who have complained that the laws are still being violated in Youngstown," said Reese. "I am making an honest effort to clean up and have arrested as many law violators as have been complained of."

OPPOSITIONS

Give Up the Fight on the Workmen's Compensation Amendment.

Information has been received that for the first time in many years the private liability insurance companies will take no part in the canvas on the workmen's compensation amendment, which is to be acted upon by the voters in the November election. The agreed amendment of capital and labor heads the ballot as it was submitted to the Ohio general assembly.

The retirement of the insurance interests who will be debarred under the amendment from ever participating in the compensation matter, is held by close students to mark the surrender of those forces in Ohio. In no other election or canvass in ten years have they been out of the situation.

Managers in charge of the capital and labor compensation amendment also learn that personal injury attorneys will take little part in the canvass. To these attorneys is credited the successful litigation that succeeded in the Fender case, in breaking down the former rules of the Ohio supreme court on the matter of open liability. A few attacks on the amendment were made in addresses before labor groups, but Secretary Thomas J. Donnelly recently issued a broadside reply and stopped the agitation. Since then the personal injury forces have given notice they will stop "sniping" at the amendment.

It also became known today that business interests generally will give support to the amendment proposed by Secretary of State Thad. H. Brown. The object of the amendment is to do away with publicity pamphlets for arguments on referendum matters and permit him to advertise in the newspapers. The attitude of the business men of Ohio is that newspaper advertising is "best by test" and that the state should adopt a progressive policy and employ the newspapers officially to let the people know details of governmental questions.

A joint committee of employers and workers today signed a public appeal for the compensation amendment.

Each faction sets forth the benefits to be derived mutually by workers and employers. They jointly emphasize that it protects the workmen's compensation law, wipes out open liability, provides for safety work and abolishes the "ambulance-chaser" in accident cases.

AMUSEMENTS

Willard Mack's play, "Your Friend and Mine," in which the celebrated actor-author has been seen in many theaters throughout the country has been done as a motion picture by S-L (Sawyer-Lubin) Pictures, released by Metro. The photoplay is scheduled for presentation here on Thursday at the Metropolitan. Advance reports concerning it are extremely fine, especially emphasis being placed on the elaborateness with which the picture has been produced.

"Your Friend and Mine" tells of a neglected wife, her husband too busy with his business interests; a bogus artist, in love with the wife, sharing the husband's utmost confidence; a playwright, sensing danger, contrives to bring about a situation which will reveal the artists' real intentions, and draw the mask from the husband's eyes. The conflict of these personalities brings about action that is at all times brisk and dramatic.

A sterling cast has been assembled to enact the various roles. Mr. Mack is seen as the playwright whose acuteness enables him to arrange for the artist's downfall; Enid Bennett is the wife, finding sympathy in the artist who she thinks is her friend; Huntly Gordon is the husband, intent on his business concerns; J. Herbert Frank is the unscrupulous artist, and Otto Lederer, Rosemary Theby and Aileen Ray round out the fine cast.

Clarence G. Badger has very skillfully taken advantage of the melodramatic appeal of the photoplay in his splendid direction. He has extracted a great deal of excitement from the emotional scenes and has staged the pretentious features of the photoplay with excellent taste.

Winifred Dunn wrote the scenario and Rudolph Berquist was the photographer.

SITE SECURED

Hinde Paper Box Company Will Build on Ohio Street.

The Hinde Paper Box company has secured a site for its new fibre container plant extending a full block on Ohio street and having a frontage on Pickaway and Washington streets. Their new buildings will be 80x300 feet and 40x80 feet, giving a floor space of 27,000 square feet. There will be a sidetrack and loading platform extending the full length of the buildings. They will have sufficient ground adjoining to build a board mill and to increase their factory many times the initial size.

This is an exceptionally fine factory site. Located in the heart of the city within easy walking distance of the business section and the homes of their employees.

The buildings to be erected will be of the most modern type, cement, brick and tile and a real credit to the city. The plant will be equipped with the most up-to-date machinery, all electrically driven and it will be well lighted and ventilated, furnishing employment to about 140 people at the outset.

This new industry will prove of inestimable value to Circleville, giving employment to so large a number of our people and making containers for the use of our packers, here where needed.

This is purely a Circleville industry 180 people having already subscribed to its starting. The raw material will be purchased here the finished product will be used here. We hope our people will take pride in helping start it.

Who Wants to Write?

How many of us who write, want to write only about the things that please? How differently did Crabbe act! He did not like at all the conditions under which he was obliged to live and work, but he recognized that it might be of great use to record them in literature, artistically, truthfully, and dispassionately. And he became a great artist by writing about the things he detested. . . . To work in this way requires more than self-denial; it requires immense force of character.—Lafcadio Hearn.

Pride Always Stumbling Block. Pride brings many into error, and makes them sometimes fall into blindness almost incurable. Let the fall of the proud, thus foolishly presuming on themselves, serve thee for a warning, and keep thee ever humble.—Thomas a Kempis.

"NAVY DAY" IS PLANNED FOR U. S. SEA FORCES

Officials' Intention to "Clear Up Confusion About Water Defenses" Wins Praise.

With the approval of the Navy department, the Navy League of the United States is planning another "Navy day," when it hopes to center the country's attention on its defenses by sea. The celebration will take place Oct. 27.

The following letter from Acting Secretary Roosevelt to Robert W. Kelley, president of the league, promising the co-operation of the Navy department in making the day a success, was made public at the league's headquarters:

"It is the right of our people to be fully informed on the vital problem of national defense. The navy is our bulwark. Behind its protection our people are able to carry on their lives, develop their ideals, and live in the righteous peace we so earnestly desire.

"It is the right arm of our State department, and translates our national pronouncements from empty words into statements that must be given the most serious consideration by all. Whereas we are all working for every legitimate economy in government, we should never let a penny-wise, pound-foolish policy govern our naval establishment.

"The department will gladly co-operate with you and help in any way to make the people realize their vital interest in the navy."

In a letter to Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Kelley declared the purpose of the celebration was to clear up "much confusion of thought" about the navy.

"Our army and navy have been denounced as symbols of war, their officers and men its advocates," wrote Mr. Kelley. "This is not true. All classes are united in a desire for peace. None desire it more than army and navy men, who realize more keenly than others the horrors of war. They seek only the strength that will maintain peace."

DEAF, HEARS RADIO VOICES

This Girl Hasn't Heard Before in Twenty Years. Winifred Dedrick, twenty-four years old, of Lawrence, Kan., heard the sound of a human voice for the first time since she became deaf when four years old. In listening to baseball scores over a high power radio set, Miss Dedrick was also able to plainly distinguish sounds in the musical concert from the Kansas City Star.

Although stricken deaf and dumb with spinal meningitis when a child, Miss Dedrick has acquired an education. She is a graduate of the State School for the Deaf at Olathe and will be a senior in the Fine Arts school of the University of Kansas this fall.

Although many tests have been conducted to see if she could hear, this was the first time that she could plainly hear the human voice.

YES, HE HAS A BLACK EYE

Fight Followed Selection From Banana Song.

A quotation from a popular song sent a Tiffin (Ohio) salesman to a physician's office for treatment and caused the arrest of a grocery clerk on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

William W. Gilliam, salesman for an ice cream company, went into a West End grocery, where he mumbled the words, "Yes, we have no bananas." A clerk dropped a sack of crackers and planted his fist against Gilliam's right eye, scoring a knockout.

John W. Crampton was arrested shortly afterward, charged with being that clerk. Mayor Adolph Unger placed Crampton under $100 bond to appear for hearing. Clerk Crampton pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

CONDEMNNS POLITICS

Mrs. Mae Stannard Says Welfare Work Needs House Cleaning.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Mae E. Stannard, dismissed matron of Girls' Industrial school at Delaware, addressed representative social workers at a luncheon given by the State Federation of Women's clubs, welfare division. She said: "State welfare work needs a thorough housecleaning. This can not be accomplished until the political spoils system is wiped out. We must not rest till we rid state welfare work of politics."

Speaking as special representative for the national committee on care and training of delinquent women and girls, she said: "I first fully realized the need for reorganization of state welfare work when I took charge of the Delaware school, May 1, 1922. Old-time penal methods prevailed. The work program included nothing but humdrum housework. Parole was based on time served, not conduct. My hands were tied by politics, but in spite of that I abolished or modified the punishments, instituted a new work program, gathered an efficient executive staff, based parole on good conduct, and grouped the girls in classes and cottages according to type. Then I was removed. Nevertheless the light is going on."

GYPSY MOTH FEARED

Christmas Trees From New England Are Barred In Ohio.

Columbus, Oct. 4.—State Agriculture Director Truax has issued a quarantine on evergreen trees from New England, excepting the nursery grown. Truax said he was taking this action to prevent the importation of trees bearing gipsy or brown-tail moths. While these moths do not attack the fir trees, they use them for nesting places, the director said. The gipsy moth, according to Truax, is one of the most devastating species. New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania have banned the New England Christmas tree, Truax said. This means that Ohio will have to get her Christmas trees from Michigan and Wisconsin, thus barring New England dealers, who have up to this year supplied a large part of Ohio's evergreens.

"I am glad you are not crazy to make me happy," happy," answered Kelly.

FOOTBALL

Circleville Plays First Game in League at Wilmington.

The first games of the football series of the South Central Ohio Athletic league will be in full swing Friday afternoon at Chillicothe, Greenfield and Wilmington. The members of the league are Greenfield, Washington C. H., Chillicothe, Hillsboro, Wilmington and Circleville. Each of these schools plays a game every Friday for the next five weeks. Thus three games are in progress each week end. The home boys go to Wilmington for this opening game but will meet Greenfield here in Circleville on October 12.

The entire league schedule follows:

October 5. Chillicothe against Hillsboro at Chillicothe; Washington against Greenfield at Greenfield; Wilmington against Circleville at Wilmington.

October 12. Chillicothe against Washington at Washington; Greenfield against Circleville at Circleville; Hillsboro against Wilmington at Hillsboro.

October 19. Chillicothe against Wilmington at Wilmington; Hillsboro against Greenfield at Hillsboro; Washington against Circleville at Circleville.

October 26. Chillicothe against Circleville at Chillicothe; Washington against Hillsboro at Washington Greenfield against Wilmington at Greenfield.

November 2. Chillicothe against Greenfield at Chillicothe; Hillsboro against Circleville at Hillsboro; Washington against Wilmington at Washington.

Cut out this schedule and save it. It will come handy for checking up as the series advances.

Power to Be Harnessed. The demand for electrical energy is increasing by such leaps and bounds that every available power source is being tapped. Geysers and artesian wells have been called upon to do their share towards furnishing light and power. The only sources of energy as yet elusive to man's efforts to chain them for power-producing purposes are the sun's rays and the ocean's waves. Necessity being the mother of invention, man will eventually find a way to harness these valuable forces also.

Earliest Machine for Drilling. The earliest known machine, which existed in Egypt centuries before the Christian era, was a contrivance to drill out stone vessels.

Hotel Stenographer BY ROE FULKERSON

"People are funny," said the Hotel Stenographer. "Been to see Charlie Chaplin?" asked the House Detective. "Charles Chaplin isn't people, Kelly," answered the girl. "I was thinking about a better show than anybody ever saw splashed on a screen by a magic lantern with a wiggler in it. I was thinking about our flat."

"Any flat is a better show than any theater. If I ever met a fairy and she wanted to touch me with her wand and let me make a wish, I would wish that I could see thru the sides of all apartment houses, like you look thru the glass side of an aquarium and watch goldfish yawn the way they are always doing."

"At my flat there is a man who plays a fiddle in a moving picture show every night. His wife has a job at the same theater taking tickets and all they make is six or eight bucks a day, and they are as happy as a couple of robins on a wormy lawn after a rain. They sing, and go walking and hold hands in the street car and she told me herself there wasn't a thing in the world they wanted."

"Right under them is a prosperous bootlegger, who goes out every day with a couple of sample quarts in a brief bag and does a fine office building trade. His wife is a cafe singer and between them they make five hundred a week if they make a plugged nickel. They have a spiffy roadster, and she has an ermine evening wrap and he sports a wicked tuxedo and they fight like dogs and cats all the time and complain because they haven't anything."

"It isn't what people have that makes 'em happy or unhappy, Kelly. It is the things they want. If I wanted to make anybody happy as could be I wouldn't give them something: I would take something away from them."

"I am glad you are not crazy to make me happy," happy," answered Kelly.

HISTORY DAY

Splendid Program Will be Rendered at Logan Elm Park Sunday.

Ohio History day will be celebrated next Sunday, October 7, at Logan Elm park. The annual celebration of this day where the famous Logan Elm is located is full of interest to the people. The day was originated by Mrs. Howard Jones, who is one of the prime movers in keeping alive the interest in the Logan Elm and the aborigines of this community.

The celebration will review the early history of the Red Man. Because the historic tree is so near us, we do not appreciate its location. If any other community had this famous tree as a drawing card they would not part with it at any price.

An interesting program will be rendered. John F. Carlisle, president of the Columbus McGuffey club and Charles B. Galbreath, secretary of the Ohio Historical and Archeological society, will make addresses.

Everybody is invited to attend the meeting which will be held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. All who go down to Elmwood on the 1:38 Traction car will be met by automobiles that will convey them to the park and they will arrive in time to hear the opening address.

The Fibre Container industry in Circleville is a logical kind of business to engage in the paper business. It has proven profitable in the Miami Valley at Piqua, Tippicanoe City, Dayton, Franklin, Middletown, Lockland, and Hamilton and Cincinnati where ten thousand people are engaged in it.

Cause for Grief.

The little boy with the rather grubby face was crying lustily in the street when a kind old lady, who happened to be passing, stopped and asked him the cause of his grief.

"Boo, hoo! 'Cause I've lost a penny," was the tearful rejoinder. "Mother gave it to me and I can't find it anywhere."

"Ah, never mind," said the kind old soul, as she took her purse out of her pocket. "Here's another penny for you."

The child instantly stopped his howling and took the penny in his grimy hand. The old lady passed on, but she had not gone far when she heard howls louder than ever coming from the boy. Retracing her steps she asked the reason of his renewed lamentations.

"I'm crying 'cause—'cause if I hadn't lost that first penny I should have had two now!"

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School 'Lesson' (By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.) (© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 7

ABRAHAM, A BLESSING TO THE WORLD

LESSON TEXT—Gen. 12:1-3; 13:17-18; 22:15-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—"In Thee shall all families of the earth be blessed."—Gen. 12:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Being a Blessing to Others.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Man Who Became a Blessing to the World.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abraham, a Religious Pioneer.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Abraham, a Religious Pioneer.

I. Abraham's Ancestors (Josh. 24:2, 14).
Abraham's people were idolaters. Very likely as a young man, he himself worshiped idols. Tradition furnishes us with some interesting stories touching his struggle against idolatry. At any rate, his experience was such as to well qualify him to be the head of a people whose God was the Lord. He knew how hopelessly disastrous idolatry was to the morals of the people, and, therefore, would be able to lead them back to God.

II. Abraham's Call (Gen. 12:1, cf. Acts 7:2-3).
God came to him in Ur of the Chaldees and said unto him:

1. "Get thee out of thy country." One is tied to his country with a strong bond. Abraham had lived long enough to have formed strong attachments to his country.

2. "Get thee out from thy kindred." Abraham was not only to leave behind him his native land, but his relatives as well, even his father's house. Since his kindred were idolaters, he must leave them. Abraham was to become a pilgrim, to be without a home. Even in Canaan, the only land he ever owned, was a burial place.

3. "Into the land that I will show thee." He was not told what or where the land was. He went out not knowing whither he went (Heb. 11:8). While he dwelt in tents during his earthly sojourn, yet "he looked for a city which hath foundations whose builder and maker is God" (Heb. 11:10). And thus he was a typical believer called out from his family and country, and renouncing idolatry, he walked by faith, testifying to his and succeeding generations to the faithfulness of God. It costs to obey God, but there is an abundant recompense.

III. God's Promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:2-3; 13:17-18).

1. The Father of a Great Posterity (v. 2). This has been literally fulfilled. He was not to go out primarily for what he could get, but for what he could do. The minister and missionary forget their own personal blessings in the supreme joy of their converts who are the fruits of their labor. No name in all history equals that of Abraham in its honorable influence. His is the name of honor among Jews, Mohammedans and Christians. They all acknowledge him as father.

2. A Blessing to Others (vv. 2, 3). He was not only to become great and to share God's blessings, but to be a blessing to others. He has become a blessing to countless multitudes. This is the prevailing law of the spiritual life—being blessed to be a blessing. Those who respond to this law become the very touchstone of God, so precious that God will bless them who bless them, and curse those who curse them. God makes common cause with His people. So vitally is He one with them that it is a serious thing to mistreat them. To maltreat God's children is to lift the hand against God. No one who goes against Him can prosper. Not only is this so with reference to wilful acts against His children, but neglect or refusal to do good to them. Christ regards all acts for or against them as for or against Him.

IV. God Testing Abraham (Gen. 22:1-18).
Abraham's faith was shown in that he obeyed the call of God and left his land and kindred, but his faith reached its highest point in offering Isaac. For many years, he had waited for the fulfillment of God's promise as to his heir. At last that promise was a reality. Abraham's hope was not the ordinary hope which fills the heart of every father, that his name and work may be perpetuated through his son. A new nation and the world's Savior were to spring up from Abraham through this son. Through this great ordeal, his faith responded enabling him to believe that God would give Isaac back from the dead (Heb. 11:17-19). God tries all His children. The more important, the more severe the trial.

Education.
The worst education that teaches self-denial is better than the best that teaches everything else and not that.—J. Sterling.

All Make Mistakes.
The world could easily get along without the man who never makes a mistake.

Warn Us From Vice.
All physical evils are so many beacon lights to warn us from vice.—Bowen.

Impressed Forever.
There are occasional doubts in the minds of the elders of the Moore family as to the quickness of Tommy's wits, but there has never been any doubt that a lesson learned by him, however slowly, is forever after remembered.
"Won't you shake hands with me, Tommy?" asked one of his sister's admirers, but Tommy hung back.
"I don't care to," he said, with terrible distinctness.
"Don't you like me?" asked the unwelcome visitor.
"No, I don't!" replied Tommy, and then there was a shocked chorus from the family.
"Tommy," said his aunt, reproachfully, as she withdrew him from the public gaze, "why did you say such a rude thing to Mr. Jones?"
"Because, auntie," said her wriggling charge, "I got licked last week for not telling the truth, and I shan't never take any risks again!"—Boston Globe.

An Arabic word, meaning "complete and entire submission of body and soul to God, His will and His service, as well as to all those articles of faith, commands, and ordinances revealed to and ordained by Mohammed, His prophet." It is the proper name of the religion generally known as Mohammedanism, and consists in an observance of the following five duties: Declaring that there is but one God; reciting prayers daily; giving legal alms; observing the month of Ramadan as a fast; making one pilgrimage to Mecca during a lifetime.

ABRAHAM, A BLESSING TO THE WORLD

LESSON TEXT—Gen. 12:1-3; 18:17-18; 22:15-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—"In Thee shall all families of the earth be blessed."—Gen. 12:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being a Blessing to Others.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Man Who Became a Blessing to the World.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Abraham, a Religious Pioneer.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Abraham, a Religious Pioneer.

I. Abraham's Ancestors (Josh. 24:2, 14).
Abraham's people were idolaters. Very likely as a young man, he himself worshiped idols. Tradition furnishes us with some interesting stories touching his struggle against idolatry. At any rate, his experience was such as to well qualify him to be the head of a people whose God was the Lord. He knew how hopelessly disastrous idolatry was to the morals of the people, and, therefore, would be able to lead them back to God.

II. Abraham's Call (Gen. 12:1, cf. Acts 7:2-3).
God came to him in Ur of the Chaldees and said unto him:

1. "Get thee out of thy country." One is tied to his country with a strong bond. Abraham had lived long enough to have formed strong attachments to his country.

2. "Get thee out from thy kindred." Abraham was not only to leave behind him his native land, but his relatives as well, even his father's house. Since his kindred were idolaters, he must leave them. Abraham was to become a pilgrim, to be without a home. Even in Canaan, the only land he ever owned, was a burial place.

3. "Into the land that I will show thee." He was not told what or where the land was. He went out not knowing whither he went (Heb. 11:8). While he dwelt in tents during his earthly sojourn, yet "he looked for a city which hath foundations whose builder and maker is God" (Heb. 11:10). And thus he was a typical believer called out from his family and country, and renouncing idolatry, he walked by faith, testifying to his and succeeding generations to the faithfulness of God. It costs to obey God, but there is an abundant recompense.

III. God's Promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:23; 18:17-18).

1. The Father of a Great Posterity (v. 2). This has been literally fulfilled. He was not to go out primarily for what he could get, but for what he could do. The minister and missionary forget their own personal blessings in the supreme joy of their converts who are the fruits of their labor. No name in all history equals that of Abraham in its honorable influence. His is the name of honor among Jews, Mohammedans and Christians. They all acknowledge him as father.

2. A Blessing to Others (vv. 2, 3). He was not only to become great and to share God's blessings, but to be a blessing to others. He has become a blessing to countless multitudes. This is the prevailing law of the spiritual life—being blessed to be a blessing. Those who respond to this law become the very touchstone of God, so precious that God will bless them who bless them, and curse those who curse them. God makes common cause with His people. So vitally is He one with them that it is a serious thing to mistreat them. To mistreat God's children is to lift the hand against God. No one who goes against Him can prosper. Not only is this so with reference to wilful acts against His children, but neglect or refusal to do good to them. Christ regards all acts for or against them as for or against Him.

IV. God Testing Abraham (Gen. 22:1-18).

Abraham's faith was shown in that he obeyed the call of God and left his land and kindred, but his faith reached its highest point in offering Isaac. For many years, he had waited for the fulfillment of God's promise as to his heir. At last that promise was a reality. Abraham's hope was not the ordinary hope which fills the heart of every father, that his name and work may be perpetuated through his son. A new nation and the world's Savior were to spring up from Abraham through this son. Through this great ordeal, his faith responded enabling him to believe that God would give Isaac back from the dead (Heb. 11:17-19). God tries all His children. The more important, the more severe the trial.

Education.

The worst education that teaches self-denial is better than the best that teaches everything else and not that.—J. Sterling.

All Make Mistakes.

The world could easily get along without the man who never makes a mistake.

Warn Us From Vice.

All physical evils are so many beacon lights to warn us from vice.—Bowen.

Impressed Forever.
There are occasional doubts in the minds of the elders of the Moore family as to the quickness of Tommy's wits, but there has never been any doubt that a lesson learned by him, however slowly, is forever after remembered.
"Won't you shake hands with me, Tommy?" asked one of his sister's admirers, but Tommy hung back.
"I don't care to," he said, with terrible distinctness.
"Don't you like me?" asked the unwelcome visitor.
"No, I don't," replied Tommy, and then there was a shocked chorus from the family.
"Tommy," said his aunt, reproachfully, as she withdrew him from the public gaze, "why did you say such a rude thing to Mr. Jones?"
"Because, auntie," said he wriggling charge, "I got licked last week for not telling the truth, and I shan't never take any risks again!"—Boston Globe.

ATTRACTIONS FOR BIG PUMPKIN SHOW.

Committees Are Hard at Work and Festival Will be Clean and Free From Gambling--Three Big Parades Will be Features of the Week--Three Bands Will Furnish Music During Three Days--Free Acts Are Dog and Pony Show, the Six Melzers and Bernard Dooley.

The Big Pumpkin Show, October 17 to 20, promises to be the biggest ever given. Little do people who are not on the inside realize the amount of work that the officers of the show are doing in getting the annual affair on its feet. This year there will be several new features and it will be conducted as a clean show. There will be no gambling, no wheels of fortune or games of chance allowed to ply their trade on the unwary.

The chairman of the amusement and band committee, T. D. Krinn, has made arrangements for the following free acts: Van's Dog and Pony show and this will be located at the corner of West Main and Scioto streets. The Six Melzers acrobatic act will be in front of the Grand opera house. The Melzers will also give the flying trapeze acts in front of the court house at another hour. Mr. Krinn has also secured one of the most sensational acts ever brought to this city, an act that carried big with Ringling Brothers circus last season. It is Bernard Dooley, who balances on his head on a high trapeze, juggling, swinging, disrobing and robbing while standing on his head and then sliding down a wire while in the same position. This is a hair raiser and creates a sensation whenever it is performed. It will be produced thru the entire show at the corner of Court and Pickaway streets. The chairman has secured the famous Immel band for the entire show the Bremen band for Friday, October 19 and the American Legion band organization, of Columbus, for Saturday all day and evening.

The parade feature of the show will be one of the big drawing cards Thursday evening. Friday evening and Saturday afternoon are the dates given H. G. Stevenson, chairman of the Industrial and Commercial parade to put on his show. This will be divided in two sections. The Industrial parade will be made up of manufacturers only and the Commercial will be made up of retailers. This parade will be unusual, in that it will have floats representing the industries of the city. The parade of the innocents, the babies, will be given as usual on Thursday afternoon and Mrs. Austin W. Valentine will be chairman.

The auto parade in charge of R. L. Brehmer will be one of the novel parades of the show. This will be given in two sections. The first will be for new cars only and the other only used motor vehicles and prizes will be awarded in both sections. The parades will be given on Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

The Comic and Characterization parade will be given Friday evening at 7:20 o'clock and will be in charge of Mrs. J. C. Rader, as chairman.

The free exhibits are the finest and best that could be secured and with the bands and parades will draw a big crowd.

President Coolidge Has Plans to Ameliorate Agricultural Depression.

President Coolidge has set in motion a plan designed to ameliorate agricultural depression. He designated Managing Director Meyer and Director Mondell of the war finance corporation to proceed into the northwest immediately and assist in the formation of cooperative marketing associations, promotion of which the president believes will result in direct benefit.

Meanwhile Mr. Coolidge and his cabinet are seeking to devise additional remedies.

Directors of the finance corporation began at once the formulation of a program and itinerary for their tour. It was stated that Mr. Meyer and Mr. Mondell, together with a representative of the department of agriculture experienced in cooperative association work, would visit the Dakotas, Minnesota, Montana and probably Nebraska and other wheat growing districts.

The directors, familiar with the cooperative methods in use among tobacco, rice and cotton growers of the south and fruit growers of California, will carry detailed plans for organization into every section visited. Government funds will be available thru both the war finance corporation and agencies and the intermediate credit banks, created by the ways of financing will be the last congress. Books and Friends.

One cannot celebrate books sufficiently. After saying his best, still something better remains to be spoken in their praise. As with friends, one finds new beauties at every interview, and would stay long in the presence of those choice companions. As with friends, he may dispense with a wide acquaintance. Few and choice. The richest minds need not large libraries. That is a good book which is opened with expectation and closed with profit.—A. Bronson Alcott.

Life Calls for One's Best.

To make a success of life you must be always at it with your eye on the job. Diversion will stimulate far more intensive effort, but the effort itself must have no diverting influence. "This one thing I do," says the apostle, and in doing it he wins. Keep your eye on the ball and put your best into the game.

Caddy Miller just received a fine line of Sweaters and Sport Coats, the best you can buy. Come in and look them over.

"The Store That Treats You Right"

If you are set on paying a top Price for a Top Coat---you stop Right at these headliners.

The best is none too good for our trade, but we do not trade in high prices.

We haven't a top coat in stock as high as $60 and we haven't a coat that isn't fit to grace the shoulders of the President of the United States Steel Corporation.

This is a value show as well as a beauty show.

We believe that only the spendthrift is looking for fancy prices---and we've heard say that the best spenders in the country eventually occupy the best seats in the poorhouse.

These coats are the quintessence of quality at a fine common sense price.
